A Message from the New ORS Executive Director

It is with great excitement and deep gratitude that I share how honored I am to join the Orthopaedic Research Society as your new Executive Director. ORS has long been recognized as a remarkable community—one defined not only by scientific excellence, but by collaboration, generosity, and a shared commitment to advancing musculoskeletal research for the benefit of patients everywhere. To now be part of this mission is truly inspiring.

Over the past month, I have had the privilege of meeting many of you and learning more about the work that fuels this organization. I have been genuinely in awe of the dedication I've seen across every corner of ORS. Our Board members bring thoughtful leadership and a clear vision for the future. Our volunteers give their time and expertise with a level of passion that is rare and extraordinary. Our staff works tirelessly behind the scenes to make sure ORS continues to grow, innovate, and serve the needs of our members. And our entire community—researchers, clinicians, partners, and students—embodies the curiosity and drive that make this field so impactful.

As I continue to learn, listen, and understand the needs of our community, I am filled with excitement for what lies ahead. Together, we will build upon the strong foundation already in place and continue to elevate the visibility, reach, and impact of ORS.

Thank you for the warm welcome and for the trust you have placed in me. I am truly honored to serve you and look forward to all we will achieve together. I look forward to meeting you in March at our Annual Meeting in Charlotte, NC.

With appreciation,

Brenda E. Osuch
